Could Obamacare boost retail health clinics?

October 15, 2012 by Retail Healthcare News Editor · Leave a Comment \(Edit\)

The Star Tribune reports on the potential effect of 30 million new insured Americans that could begin shopping for more health care in 2014, as a result of the new health care law. Retail-based health providers like CVS Caremark (which owns the Minnesota-founded Minute Clinic) and Target Corp.'s own Target Clinics could see an influx of new business — though not [...]
